

Question 1. The following sentence, though bizarre and deliberately confusing, is actually grammatically correct:

“The weasel that a boy that startles the cat thinks loves smiles eats.”

Answer the following questions. In some cases, the answers may be “nobody in this sentence” or “nothing in this sentence”.

- 1. What is the subject of this sentence? (Give a single-word answer.)*
- 2. How many verbs are in the sentence?*
- 3. Who startles whom or what?*
- 4. Who thinks what?*
- 5. Who loves whom or what?*
- 6. Who smiles?*
- 7. Who eats whom or what?*